To convey the effect of puberty, the Lockie Leonard TV series producers exaggerate the impact of hormones and use the metaphor of young boys on the rampage.

View the video clip Puberty and respond to the following questions in the space provided:

1	When the scene opens, Lockie says that he's happy and life is good. What images are used to suggest this?
2	A stark contrast is created between the time before and after the hormones arriving. Why do you think Boof and his gang are used to portray the hormones?
3	Look at the visual codes (e.g. costumes, lighting, camera angles, etc.) used in each of the segments with Boof and his gang. How are viewers encouraged to think about the various versions of Boof and his gang? <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li data-bbox="231 1724 695 1852">▪ In turn, how are we invited to think about hormones, especially as they affect boys?</li></ul>
